

THERE IS ADVENTURE IN SOUND...

The Atlanta Radio Theatre Company has been bringing quality audio drama to listeners around the world since 1984. Join us in our celebration of the imagination as we preserve this vital, vibrant art form. Our unique, immersive, dramatic technique will feed your imagination and inspire your senses with realistic sound effects and stirring musical scores. Audio drama and radio theatre were seemingly left behind, but the power of stories lives on. Come discover that There is Adventure in Sound!

If you enjoyed today's program, help support audio drama with your purchase of some of our fine studio recordings!

ARTC is a volunteer organization. If you are interested in giving your time in exchange for learning about the craft of audio drama, we'd love to hear from you. For more information please contact us!

The Dancer in the Dark exists in two versions. One is a five-part serial that Thomas E. Fuller wrote for broadcast back in 1985 when you could still hear audio theatre on commercial radio. The version you'll hear in act 2 is a one-hour condensation — suitable for live performance.

The original plan was to take the full version of The Dancer in the Dark into the studio and have it ready for sale at tonight's performance, which would feature short version with that same cast.

Unfortunately I booked the theatre and made all the plans before I realized that the vast majority of the female portion of the original cast would be out of town for Costume Con. Add to that the usual life instances and by the time all was said and done only 4 of the original 14 cast members were able to be a part of tonight's performance.

Add to that the inevitable hiccups that always seem to introduce themselves to our post-production process and we don't even have the CD ready for you tonight, and for that I apologize.

But this group never ceases to amaze me.

Doug Kaye, our director, has done a masterful job and tonight's performance is not diminished in any way by the casting changes. I would have no hesitation to take this group into the studio for this exact same production.

These people make my dreams come true every day.
